Kidnap Ring Linked With 17 Abductions Smashed

12 WOMEN INCLUDED IN 30 ARRESTED BY ILLINOIS OFFICERS

BAND ROUNDED UP THROUGH COOPERATION OF CHICAGO, PEORIA, ST. LOUIS POLICE

Chicago, Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—Chief Investigator Pat Roche, state's attorney's office, announced today the arrest of 30 members of a kidnap ring including 12 women.

The captives, Roche said, have been implicated in 17 kidnappings in the central states. The band was rounded up through cooperation of Chicago, Peoria, and St. Louis authorities, Roche said.

He would not immediately reveal names of any of the prisoners being held.

Five Confess

Roche said five of the 30 captives have confessed their part in 17 abductions and demands for ransom. None of the prisoners were placed in jail. The entire group was rounded up and put under guard of police and detective at the Congress hotel.

For the past weeks, Roche and his associates have been raiding hangouts of the gang in the three midwest cities.

Roche asserted that enough evidence has been obtained already to put the prisoners on trial.

The band was believed that responsible for wholesale kidnaping of midwest gamblers and men associated with liquor and other illicit enterprises as well as legitimate business men.

Though Roche would not state specifically which kidnappings were charged against the abduction syndicate, one was believed to be that of John J. Lynch, general news bureau head. Lynch, whose syndicate distributes racing information, was reported to have been released last August after Al Capone had been instrumental in reducing the ransom demand from $200,000 to $50,000.

Another believed victim of the same syndicate was James Hackett, a Chicago gambler. He was said to have paid $75,000 for his freedom.

Hideouts Near Chicago

One report was that both Hackett and Lynch had viewed the prisoners and identified several as having been those who abducted them. Hackett was captured last May and imprisoned for several days.

Two hideouts were believed to have been maintained in the Chicago area, both in suburban districts. The Roche investigators were reported to have discovered residents near the hideaways who identified several prisoners.

Recent kidnappings which bore the earmarks of the organized syndicate were those of Fred J. Blumer, wealthy Monroe, Wis., brewer; Frank Richley, identified by police also as a brewer and resident of Evanston, Ill., and W. C. Flanagan, Gary Ind., heavily interested in handbook operation there.

CLOUDY, COLDER TO FOLLOW IN WAKE OF SNOWSTORM IN AREA

The New Year's "blizzard" brought lower temperatures to the northwest today.

The lower readings were accompanied by snow, sleet and chilling winds. The United States weather bureau predicted no more snowfall for the weekend but said it would continue to be cloudy and colder.

A blanket of heavy snow covered most of the northwest states today which southern Minnesota reported as the heaviest in two years. In South Dakota power lines coated by sleet broke under the strain, and linemen were out today making the repairs.

Canby, Minn., most of the communication lines were wrecked by high winds and the heavy coating of sleet. Almost 10 inches of snow have fallen some parts of the state. St. Cloud reported two inches. In the section of Winona almost five inches had fallen. Fairmont reported six inches. Albert Lea reported seven. Snow in the Dakota was lighter than Minnesota.

Temperatures have dropped in some of the northwest as low as 10 degrees below zero which was reported on Bismarck, N. D. The warmest temperatures were, St. Paul, 23, Duluth 22, Moorhead, 4, Lacrosse 26, Huron 4 below zero, Devils Lake, 0, Winnipeg 0, Williston 0.

$22,000 Fire Razes Hotel Early Today

GUESTS OF FERGUS FALLS HOTEL FORCED INTO SNOW, FREEZING TEMPERATURES

Fergus Falls, Minn., Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—The second mysterious downtown fire of the new year sent lightly clad guests into snow and freezing temperatures of the street today as flames destroyed the Christiana hotel with a loss of $22,000.

Firemen rescued half a dozen persons who were overcome by smoke in their rooms. Among these was Minder Borne who had escaped a fire the day before in the Schei and Wilke store building.

The blaze spread so rapidly that stairways were ablaze in the three story structure before many could leave their rooms. Borne was in a room on the third floor, he told firemen. He was awakened by the shout of fire and found his room filled with smoke.

Borne started to dress but was overcome by smoke. Guests who were forced to the streets huddled under blankets watching the fire, until provisions for their housing could be made.

The Schei and Wilke fire occurred at the same hour, 2 a. m., the day before. The loss was partly covered by insurance, according to N. A. Haagen, owner.

89 Killed in Minneapolis

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—Although more than two dozen automobile smashups were reported for the New Year's holiday the accident toll was but one dead. The year's total, however, was 89 killed. The accident victim was Mrs. Bruce Morton.

In St. Paul, 61 were killed in traffic accidents during the year.

Michelson has been acting as special assistant, aiding in highway matters.

Smash Counterfeiting Ring

Taking Four Men, Four Women
Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—Federal officers and Minneapolis police today arrested four men and four women in a raid on an alleged counterfeiting ring's headquarters in a downtown apartment.

Names of those arrested were not announced. The alleged "brains" of the gang was not apprehended, officers said, although the raid was conducted on the apartment in which he was known to live.

The gang is alleged to have had headquarters in Minneapolis, but to have distributed its counterfeit coins, mainly half dollars and quarters, in smaller communities around the state.

SENATE CONSIDERS CURB ON ACTIVITIES OF FOREIGN BONDS

ESTIMATES STREET FLOATED BONDS IN EXCESS OF 10 BILLIONS

(Copyright, 1932, by United Press)
Washington, Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—An indication that Wall street made between $400,000,000 and $600,000,000 in syndicate "spread," profits out of floating foreign bonds, now drastically depreciated, is contained in a senate finance committee report made public today.

A United Press compilation of evidence submitted by J. P. Morgan & Company, the National City company and Kuhn, Loeb & Company showed these houses participated in the floatation of $5,890,175,000 of bonds. The spread profits on them were $196,501,889.

Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City company, estimated the street floated upwards of 10 billions of bonds. Department of commerce estimates have run as high as 17 billions. On the basis of profits thus far disclosed by the senate investigation, it would appear that the total spread on all bonds is between two and three times the amount so far disclosed.

Interest in these profits is keen in the senate because many protests have been received by senators from holders of the bonds who are complaining of their depreciated value on the New York exchange. Preparations already have been made for considering some legislation to put a curb on Wall street foreign bond activities. Senator Borah, Rep., Idaho, is preparing a bill to reach the situation through taxation.

The profits thus far disclosed came out of the pockets of foreign creditors. When the bonds were floated, the Wall street commissioners gave the borrowers only a portion of the face value of the bond. Two and three syndicates sometimes juggled the bonds before they reached the public at par or a little below par. The difference between what the foreign borrowers got and what the American investor paid was "spread," or profit taken by the various banking commissions.

These spreads, as well as the total face values of the bond issues, were shown in complicated tables submitted to the finance committee by the three largest houses examined in the inquiry thus far. While no totals were given, a compilation by the United Press showed the following profits made by all the syndicates involved:

Bank	Amount of Bonds Floated	Spread Profits
Morgan	$1,786,578,000	$74,776,151
National City	$3,525,847,000	109,461,158
Kuhn Loeb	$77,750,000	21,264,589
Total	$5,890,175,000	$196,501,889

None of the houses made all the profits accredited to it, but the figure given in the profits column is the total made by all syndicates out of issues handled by each of these houses. Mitchell's tables indicated his company's net profits on a major portion of its bond issues were around $32,000,000.

ROCKEFELLER RESUMES DISTRIBUTION OF DIMES

Ormond Beach, Fla., Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., has backed up his better-times-ahead viewpoint with distribution of shiny dimes in a profession not seen since the Christmas of 1928.

The 92-year-old millionaire started the new year with his usual round of golf. Children on the links were the chief recipients of his prosperity tokens.

HOME OF CLEM RYAN DECLARED MOST BEAUTIFUL IN DECORATION CONTEST

P. Tervholm, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Dr. R. A. Hallquist, representing the Rotary club, and William Nelson, president of the Business Men's association.

After two weeks of work, the judges completed their duties only after viewing nearly 200 homes. So great was the interest manifest in the contest that the civic organization plans to make it an annual event.

In announcing their selection, judges made note of the beautifully decorated but undoubtedly one of the undoubted Christmas grams ever under the tree.

Three Mississippi Towns Evacuated as Residents Flee Before Floods Pouring Thru Crumbled Levees

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—The trek of thousands of northern Mississippi residents to higher ground as flood waters poured into their homes was begun today as levees along the swollen Tallahatchie river crumbled.

Three towns—Mims, Stone and Curtis—were evacuated. Muddy waters flooded homes and stores hastily vacated. Residents of Webb, Sumner, Swan Lake and Glendora hurriedly packed household goods preparatory to fleeing the flood waters.

River engineers expressed little hope for immediate relief. Instead, they said, the situation is becoming increasingly serious. Red Cross officials said suffering was intense from lack of clothing, fuel and drinking water.

U. S. AGENTS SEEK FIVE IN NATION WIDE PLOT OF TERRORISM

House Near Summit, New Jersey, Believed Place From Which Explosives Were Sent to Different Cities

New York, Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—Government agents seeking the instigator of the nation-wide bombing plot believed today that they had traced the origin of the bombs to a house near Summit, N. J. It was reliably learned the place had been watched by the authorities the last three days in the hope of making an arrest.

Five Men Implicated

It is known that at least five men participated in the plot. They are believed to have manufactured in the Summit, N. J., house the bombs which killed three persons in Easton, Pa., and which were sent to other persons.

Washington, Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—Representative Hamilton Fish, republican, New York, announced today he would introduce in the house Monday a resolution for investigation of the bomb outrages, which resulted in the death of two postal clerks at Easton, Pa. Fish said that both fascist and anti-fascist have been blamed publicly for this activity.

In Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Youngstown. When the plot was exposed through the premature explosion of two bombs in the Easton post office, the plotters fled their New Jersey rendezvous and scattered.

Several valuable clues which may help postal inspectors and department of justice operatives working on the case in making an early arrest were being tested today.

Meanwhile the funeral of the first victim of the plot, the ramifications of which are thought by government agents to have been three-fold in its designs on the lives of Wall street bankers, Italian representatives and American government officials, took place.

Victim Buried

At Easton, Pa., a funeral procession of 110 cars took John B. House, postal clerk, to his last resting place. He was killed when a bomb mailed by three men exploded. Agostino Sorrente, Italian consul general went from Philadelphia to attend the funeral. He was guarded by six automobile loads of state troopers.

All the headlights on the funeral cars were lighted in accordance with an old Eastern custom. The body of Edward Werkheiser, another postal worker killed by a bomb explosion, was to be buried late today. The body of Charles Weaver, the third victim of the plot, will be buried Monday.

Hold Italian Man

Cleveland, O., Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—A 32-year-old Italian, reputedly an anti-fascist agitator, was under arrest here today as authorities sought additional bombs believed consigned here in the nation-wide terrorist plot against prominent Italians.

The suspect was arrested after Detective Lieutenant Charles Cavolo had raided headquarters of a Cleveland anti-fascist organization and seized records and correspondence files. The raid, ordered on the theory the plot may have been hatched here, disclosed names of numerous anti-fascist leaders in New York.

OBLIGATIONS FORCE UTILITIES COMPANY INTO RECEIVERSHIP

AMERICAN COMMONWEALTHS CORPORATION UNABLE TO MEET SHORT TERM NOTES

New York, Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—Inability to meet a $3,000,000 short-term note maturing today has forced the $220,000,000 American Commonwealths Power corporation, with gas and electric holdings in more than 10 states and two Canadian provinces, into "friendly" receivership.

Among the corporations controlled by the American Commonwealths Power are General Public Utilities, Minneapolis Gas Light, Interstate Fuel and Light, Dominion Gas and Electric, Union Gas Utilities and National Gas and Power.

Three receivers have been appointed pending reorganization of the corporation's affairs. They are H. Briggs of New York, and J. H. Brinkley of Chicago, and W. L. Estment Co.

Two Killed, Three Maimed by Bombs in Mail

The nervous actions of two men who placed seven packages in the mails in the postoffice at Easton, Pa., aroused the suspicions of mail clerks and led them to open one of the packages. It contained an infernal machine that exploded, jured one in another package into action, killed two clerks, and injured two. All of the packages contained bombs, and one exploded and probably fatally injured Charles V. Weaver, city explosion expert, as he was discharging it. The dead are Edward Werkheiser and John House. The bombs were addressed to prominent Italians in New York and Pittsburgh, and the Argentine consulate in Baltimore. It is believed they were the work of anti-fascists. This NEA Service, Inc.-Brainerd Dispatch telephoto shows the interior of the Easton, Pa., postoffice after it had been ripped by the explosions.

VIOLENT DEATHS IN CHARLES ANDERSON, HOLIDAY ACCIDENTS OWNER ROCKY POINT REACH TOLL OF 210 STRICKEN AT RESORT

Nearly 200 persons met violent death over the New Year's holidays, a nation-wide survey of the United Press showed today.

Automobiles took the largest toll. By noon 110 deaths were reported from all parts of the nation. Eleven persons were slain. Fifty-seven were killed in accidents.

Four were killed in an airplane crash near Springfield, O. Two women were burned to death near Lafayette, Ind., trapped by flames as they slept.

Two persons were smothered to death by gas at Urbana, Ill., and six children died the same way in Detroit.

An automobile that plunged into the Calumet river in Chicago taking 9 persons to death was the most serious single accident record. Others with heavy death tolls were a head-on collision of an auto with a street car in Los Angeles, and an airplane crash.

Many fatalities resulted through drinking and driving. Half a dozen citizens of the Pine River were arrested today when Sheriff C. E. Merry of Walker and two victims of the raid were unable to connect the suspects with the robberies.

The suspects were arrested Thursday by Sheriff Thomas Sling and charged with carrying concealed weapons. Because their descriptions tallied closely with those of the Pine River raid, the witnesses were sent for. Six men took part in the Pine River robbery. CHINA'S GREAT WALL NEW OBJECTIVE IN JAPAN OFFENSIVE

Mukden, Manchuria, Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—Japanese forces pressed inexorably toward the Great Wall of China today, slowly driving the Chinese back from their last, tedious foothold in Manchuria after the occupation of Chinchow.

Chinchow, final Chinese stronghold north of Shanhaikwan and the Great Wall, was occupied at 5 P. M. today by the main column of Gen. Kamura.

Shanghai, Jan. 2.—A new threat of civil war in China loomed today as nine provincial governors issued a Round Robin telegram denouncing the new regime headed by Lin Sen and Sun Fo, blaming it for permitting the Japanese to capture Chinchow.

Immediately upon its receipt, the Central Political Council of the Nationalist Party called an emergency meeting, following which they telegraphed Chiang Kai-Shek, former president, urging him to emerge from his retirement and come immediately to Mukden, Manchuria, Jan. 2.—Marschal Chang Hsueh-Liang ordered 15,000 Chinese regulars remaining north of the Great Wall to resist the Japanese today, reversing his policy of abandoning his strongholds peacefully as the Japanese advanced through Manchuria.

Hugging and Kissing Driver When Car in Motion is Complaint for Careless Driving, Girl Learns in Court

A driver who hugs and kisses a companion while the vehicle is in motion is a menace to the highway and is subject to arrest in careless driving, according to the circumstances involved.

A young lady from River Falls, Wis., halled into court at Garrison, was fined $10 under such circumstances.

Officers of the Minnesota Highway Patrol, R. S. Titus and Glenn Phillips who made the arrest, explained these facts of the episode to the court.

The young lady and her boy friend were riding along State Trunk highway No. 18 near Garrison. The girl was driving about 35 miles an hour. The boy leaned to the girl and kissed her, so the officers said. The girl forgot all about the driving, took her hands from the wheel, threw her arms about the boy and gave him a big hug and kiss, the witnesses said.

The embrace came quickly to an end with the blowing of the siren on the highway patrol car following to the rear.

The girl grasped the wheel of the car as it started for the ditch and brought the vehicle to a stop.

THE CITY MANAGER PLAN--

A definite trend toward adoption of the city manager form of government has been noted during the year just passed. Figures show that more than a score of cities voted to adopt the plan last year. For the most part, these cities included many operating under an obsolete and antiquated charter. In comparison, only a few cities abandoned the city manager form last year.

According to statistics, the city manager form of government appears most popular in cities ranging from 3,500 to 100,000 in size although many larger cities have and are operated successfully under this form. The plan which makes the city manager the administrative head of the city has unlimited possibilities. On the other hand, the case of the city of Cleveland can be cited for its drawbacks. Cleveland abandoned the plan last year after politics had corrupted the office. Until it did, Cleveland citizens admit, the city manager plan of government was ideal.

The city manager plan, The Daily Dispatch believes, offers unlimited debate to determine its possibilities and advantages. And, while this newspaper does not incline to the view of revolutionary changes, it believes that an open form of the city manager plan would prove both interesting and enlightening. Comments and opinions from citizens on this question are welcomed by The Daily Dispatch.

ENJOYING TRAVEL--

The hapless American male who is dragged, protesting, through the art museums and cathedrals of Europe by a high-minded and culture-hungry better half has been one of the comic figures of literature for a good many years. Mark Twain struck a blow in his favor in "Innocents Abroad," for the most part, however, the poor man has been left to the superior derision of the intelligentsia, unhonored and unsung.

Now, most refreshingly, Francis Hackett arises in the January issue of Harpers Magazine to assert that this luckless figure of tradition has pretty much the right idea.

When you travel, says Mr. Hackett, travel for fun. Don't do it to improve your mind. Have a good time; and if having a good time doesn't lead you to art museums and such-like, don't worry about it.

"The most dangerous thing for a conscientious man," says Mr. Hackett, "is to detect his moral vacuity and begin filling it up with cathedrals and museums. Especially must he control the weakness he may have for art galleries. 'One hour in the gardens,' he should say, 'where the mind is refreshed by the living picture, is worth 2000 acres of dried-up oil painting.'"

Now there is a lot of sense in that; and it points to the rather surprising fact that the most memorable moments usually come to a traveler when he is least expecting them.

You can gaze at the glories of Versailles, trudge through the Louvre open-mouthed, follow an inquisitive nose through Westminster Abbey and view the Acropolis by moonlight; but when you get back home you are apt to find that your brightest, most valuable memories are of insignificant things you hardly noticed at the time—lengthening shadows across a green English meadow, sunlight on the waves in mid-ocean, an empty stretch of poplar-bordered French road, a hastily-glimpsed cottage by an English river.

Such things aren't in guide books, nor are they mentioned in travelers' diaries. But they are of the real essence of the joys of travel. You can go to Europe to find them, or you can find them in an afternoon's motor trip in our own state of Minnesota, preferably in the Brainerd lake region. You need only open eyes and a receptive mind.

WORSHIPING THE CITY--

Whenever a distinguished visitor enters any American city, one of the first questions the reporters toss at him is, "How do you like our city?" This is especially true in New York; and a group of Indian artists from the Navajo country of New Mexico, visiting New York for an Indian exhibit recently, gave a reply that ought to keep their memory green for a long time.

They simply replied, gravely, "Have you ever seen Santa Fe?"

Of course, not all visitors can use that come-back, for not all visitors to the big town have seen Santa Fe themselves; but there is in it a wholesome antidote to the current worship of metropolitan things, people and ways that is worth bearing in mind.

It applies, too, to all visitors, distinguished or otherwise, and it applies to all cities, from New York down to some metropolis of the cow country. For we tend to put too great a halo on our cities; we are too admiring of the tall buildings, their busy streets and their everlasting clatter and noise; we let them overpower us, so that we accord them a respect that isn't based on any genuine values.

We have, in fact, altogether too much of a childish admiration for mere bigness. Because a given building is higher than another, it must be finer. Because a given city is larger than another, it must be a better place to live. Because one home is more elaborate than another, it must be happier.

These Indians managed to escape that mistake. Unimpressed by bigness, they found that Santa Fe could stand comparison with New York very well. Perhaps the towers of Manhattan don't seem so splendid to men who are used to the red cliffs of New Mexico. Perhaps the congestion of a great city did not seem entirely praiseworthy to men who knew the emptiness of the southwestern plains.

At any rate, their attitude was a sane one. At a time when every town hopes, somehow, to become bigger and more crowded every year, it is a good one to keep in mind.

CUTTING WAGES--

A recent bulletin from the Alexander Hamilton Institute is of particular value in connection with the pending negotiations over railroad wage scales.

"Unless freight rates are reduced," it says, "a cut in wage rates, which railroad executives are now endeavoring to put into effect, will merely tend to make matters worse by reducing the purchasing power of employed railroad workers."

"Wage cutting does not represent the goal, but the means to the goal—which is a reduction in freight rates. Wage cutting without price cutting results in reduced purchasing power and business contraction. Wages must be cut, but this action must be accompanied by a corresponding reduction in freight rates as well."

THREE KINDS of LOVE

BY KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN

© 1931, by Doubleday, Doran and Co.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ANNE, CECILY and MARY-FRANCES FENWICK live with their grandparents, once wealthy, now so impoverished that Anne's and Cecily's earnings support the household. The sisters have been orphaned since childhood. The grandparents are known respectively as "ROSALE" and "GRAND" and they insist on keeping up pretenses of their former wealth. Anne, 25, and Cecily, 22, do secretarial work and Mary-Frances, 15, is still in school. When the story opens Anne has been engaged to PHILIP ECHOYD, young lawyer, for eight years. They can not marry because Anne knows her sister and grandpa depend on her to manage their home. Cecily brings BARRY MEKEEL home to dinner with her. She is falling in love with him. Mary-Frances and her friend, EMMIE TRUDE, are excited about the arrival of a stock company known as EARL DE ARMOUR. They meet him on the street and he appeals to the sisters. Mary-Frances is thrilled, agrees to meet him that night after the performance. She tells him she is falling in love with him and after that first meeting promises to see him again. Next morning Cecily talks to Anne about Barry.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVI

"I'm more interested," Ann said, "in what Lindbergh thinks about you."

"He likes my looks," Cecily was earnest again. "That is—he always says 'lovely.' That is less than beautiful, I know. And, of course, I'm not beautiful. But I think it is better than 'pretty.' What do you think?"

"I think," Ann answered, as she walked to the door, "that he is in love with you. Isn't that what I'm supposed to think, Cissy?"

"Ann, I don't know. Truly, I can't tell. He says something, and then— Well, I don't know. I'm choking to find out. He likes me a lot, I'm sure of that. But he's sort of—shy of love, or queer about it, I think."

"Most men are," said Ann. "No, I don't mean that way. Barry's different. He is entirely different from any other man I've ever known. He—"

Ann interrupted. "I must run on down and start breakfast. But I want to tell you something while I have a chance without Mary-Frances around. If you haven't made a dinner engagement with Barry for this evening, perhaps you'd better not. See him after dinner, if you like, but come home for dinner. Grand—"

"But I have made one! And I'm going to keep it. Dear heavens, has Grand found his leading strings again? Will he take it out on you, angel, if I go?"

"No—I don't care if he does. This is it: Grand did fuss because you were gone last evening for dinner—but that didn't matter. After dinner, though, Ermintrude came over, and for some reason that seemed to get both Grand and Rosalie started on that same old stuff about my never having friends here—music and merriment and laughter in our home, you know. They just kept at it, and went from bad to worse, and then Rosalie had to remember your birthday, a week from tomorrow, and they are insisting upon giving you a birthday party. I couldn't stop it nor do a thing about it. Unless you can stop it, I'm afraid they'll make me carry it through. I thought you might say—"

"A party? For me?" questioned Cecily.

"Isn't it dreadful! I brought out every objection I decently could without hurting their feelings, but—"

"But," Cecily interposed, "I'd love it, Ann. I was thinking only last evening that it might seem odd to Barry that we haven't people to play with—a group, you know."

"We haven't, though," Ann said. "Not any more. There'd be no one to invite."

"Pooh! We can think of plenty of people if we count them up. There's Barry, and you and Phil, and Marta and Herbert. I said Barry, didn't I? Let's see—"

"Well, we can talk it over later," Ann said, and opened the door.

"Yes," Cecily agreed. "It will be fun!"

Ann closed the door and went down the hall toward the back stairway. "The cat's taken poison, and the baby's gone insane!" she muttered. It was her profoundest oath, significant of her furthest desperation.

"I needn't," were Cecily's first words when she came, wearing her best brown dress with its wide white collar and cuffs, into the kitchen 20 minutes later, "be such a lot of work—the party, I mean, need it, Ann, nor so very expensive?"

Ann, trying to unscrew the lid from a jar of stewed plums, glanced from it to Cecily. "No, dear," she answered. "Of course not," and despised herself. She had planned to restore Cecily's sanity, in part, at least, at any cost. But wiping that expression of wistful, shining bliss from Cecily's face would be, it seemed to Ann, as cruel as rubbing a damp sponge across a picture drawn by a child on a slate and presented for admiration.

"We could have ice cream and cake and coffee, that would be enough. We wouldn't positively have to order brick ice cream—"

"Put on a smock, dear. That apron won't cover your sleeves."

"And I could make the cakes on Friday evening, after dinner. We'd have to have two, I suppose—a devil cake and that cheap, easy sponge. That would leave Saturday afternoon free to get the house ready. We'll air the library and have it mostly in there. They wouldn't need to go upstairs—nor all over the house. We'd steer them from one oasis to another. And we wouldn't call it a party, of course. We'd just say that some friends were coming in for the evening. What's the matter, angel?"

"I can not get this lid off."

"Here. I'll pull the rubber out with the icepick. That's the best way to open the lid things. I thought we'd ask Marta and Herbert. I'd like to have Gretchen, and I should—I'm in debt to her—and she'd have some man to bring. But the would smoke. She says right out that she won't go places where she can't, and I suppose Grand would lose control."

"I can not get this lid off."

"I know," Cecily sighed. "There—that's the way to get them off. Ann: pull the rubber out first. I'll dish them. No, I can't have Gretchen, I suppose. But if I don't ask her I can't ask Jean nor Dorothy. I thought you could ask Nella and her husband."

"I wouldn't come. Look at the time! In the evening will you, Cissy? They haven't stepped outside the house in the evening since the baby was born. Nella won't trust him with strangers. I don't blame her a bit. He's a darling. I wish Penn Johns and her husband hadn't moved to Seattle to live—but they have. Could you ask the Mattason twins?"

"I could," Cecily's laugh was not wholly successful, "and I could send a cable over to the Prince of Wales."

"I don't think the Mattason twins are so much."

"Neither do I; but they think so. Anyway, Grand wouldn't let them in if they did come. Don't you remember the time he and Rosalie went with the Carmichaels to the Multnomah for dinner, and he came home and all but got out the grindstone and the knife to have them ready in case we should ever act like that? No. The twins are out."

"Well?" said Ann, but she did not say, "I told you so," as she picked up the loaded tray to carry it through the butler's pantry into the dining room. Grand and Rosalie always hoped and trusted that they had not, as yet, sunk to the level of a society where breakfasting in the kitchen was condoned.

"POOR Cissy, when Ann returned to the kitchen, was standing precisely where she had been standing when Ann had left the kitchen. The smell of burned toast was bitter in the room, and blue spirals of smoke were writhing out from the oven door."

"I could wear my pink," Cecily mused dreamily, "and you could wear your yellow, and— Oh, angel! I am sorry. I forgot all about the toast. Here, let me do it. I'm so absent-minded lately. Please, I'll attend to it. Can't I scrape it?"

Mary-Frances, pink checked and sweet as a cherub on a candy box lid, came into the kitchen and said, "Whew! What's burning? Rosalie would like her breakfast on a tray this morning, if it isn't too much trouble. She's feeling a little weak. She'd prefer orange juice to cooked fruit, if it is convenient. She wants it strained. Grand needs a cup of hot water right away. I'll take it up. He fears a slight digestive disturbance. He has hiccups. And, oh, yes, Ann, I almost forgot. Phil wants you on the telephone. He's waiting."

"Phil?" Ann questioned incredulously, and sped to the dining room, and to the telephone, and quavered, "Hello."

"Ann, dear! Did I startle you?" Ann released the long breath she had been holding. "Phil, are you all right? I—I thought something must have happened—it's so early."

"Sorry! Surely I'm all right. I only wanted to come over in the car and take you to the office this morning."

"Phil," Ann said, and succeeded at last in steadying her voice, "tell me now. What is it? What is the trouble?"

"Not a thing on earth," he assured her, "except that I haven't seen you since day before yesterday, and that it is a glorious morning, and I want to see you. Can't a man take a notion to see his girl in the morning without causing a panic?"

"Well—but—" she said. It was too amazing. It was like old times, away long ago at the beginning of things.

"Well, but," he mocked. "Have you a date with another man to ride to your office this morning?"

"Phil, dear," she protested, and laughed and almost sang. "I'll love it, of course. How good of you to think of it. How good—"

"Oh-ho!" When she went into the kitchen again there was something of Cecily's dreamy radiance in her own heart-shaped face.

"I could wear my yellow," she said. "And you could wear your pink."

TROJANS WIN BRINGS NATIONAL TITLE WANT ADS

TULANE OUTPLAYS TROJANS GAINING 16 FIRST DOWNS TO 7

GREEN WAVE GAINS ALMOST TWICE AS MUCH YARDAGE IN ROSE BOWL GAME

Pasadena, Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—Southern California defeated Tulane, 21 to 12, at Rose Bowl in the annual Tournament of Roses intersection game because it turned all its advantages to points.

Only three times did the Trojans and themselves in a position to score yesterday and three times they scored. Each time the goal was kicked.

Tulane outplayed the westerners and outplayed them in many departments but it was unable consistently to turn its yardage into touchdowns.

This difference between the contesting teams gave Southern California an undisputed national title, kept its Rose Bowl record clear, and permitted it to be the first coast team ever to turn back a southern eleven in a Tournament of Roses meeting.

Statistics show that Tulane made 16 first downs while the Trojans made but seven and that the Green Wave gained almost twice as much yardage as Southern California.

Tulane also showed about as much spirit as has been seen on the coast and this turned the game into a thrilling battle for the record crowd of 84,000.

Ernie Pinckert, who has made many all-American teams during the last two years and who has been called the greatest blocking back of all time by his coach, Howard Jones, won individual honors of the game.

Two Southern California touchdowns came on slashing reverses that saw Pinckert turn his own left end and cross the goal line, first on a 30 yard dash and later on a 23 yard run.

Twice Pinckert came from behind to drag down Harry (Wop) Glover when Glover apparently was in the clear after long, zig-zag runs.

Between times he tackled mightily and led the Trojan interference.

The first Trojan score came in the second period to climax a 65 yard drive. Gains Shaver, Trojan all-American quarterback, finally ran around his left end 22 yards to the Tulane 6 yard line and from there Ray Sparling scored on the end around play that has been a most consistent gainer all season.

Pinckert's two touchdowns came in the third quarter and with three conversions by Johnny Baker put Southern California's total at 21 where it remained during the game.

The same Glover who was brought down from behind by Pinckert was the outstanding Tulane back.

His 38-yard run late in the third quarter marked the way for Tulane's first score. He also scored the second Tulane touchdown.

He contributed a second quarter dash of 58 yards that went for nothing when Tulane could not turn the advantage to profit.

ROSEBLOOM LOSES TO SOUTHPAW MAIER

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—Dave Maier, Milwaukee southpaw, today ranked as one of the leading contenders for the light heavyweight title as a result of a decisive 10-round victory over Maxey Rosenberg, New York, former 175-pound champion, in a New Year's day bout.

Maier won six rounds, Rosenberg two, with the other two even. Maier opened a cut over Rosenberg's eye in the seventh round which bled freely. Rosenberg weighed 181, Maier 175½.

Plot of the picture centers around the drama of a coach who always won but did not hesitate to lose to make a man of his son. The picture is highly heralded as being of the best of the football series.

Brainerd high school players invited include Milton Anderson, Melvin Coffey, John Dahl, Clarence Edstrom, Elmer Foster, Joe Gabiou, Leo Garvey, Bob Jackson, Tom Koeck, Bill Smith, Gene Swanson, Dave Templeton, Lowell White, Bob Wygle, Gerry Wygle and Earl Bedore.

Two Perfectly Executed Reverses Cost Tulane Tie or Win, Bierman Writes

By BERNIE BIERMAN
Tulane Football Coach and Coach-elect for the University of Minnesota
Written for the United Press
(Copyright, 1931, by United Press)

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 2.—In as spectacular a game as anyone could hope to see, the University of Southern California won the national football title yesterday from Tulane in the Rose Bowl here by the margin of two perfectly executed reverse plays with Ernie Pinckert carrying the ball both times.

The score was 21 to 12, but the true difference between the teams was less than the score indicated. Tulane registered more first downs than did the Trojans and made more yardage than U. S. C. did.

On looking back on what might have been, Tulane might have won had several bad breaks not occurred. Any edge that Southern California had was that of physical strength. It was a well-earned victory for Southern California, however, and the Tulane team can be proud of the magnificent game it played.

Picking individual stars in this game is rather difficult, for both teams played as teams with everyone starting. Pinckert's consistently brilliant playing and Glover's wonder ball carrying deserve special mention. Dalrymple of Tulane re-injured his knee and playing with that handicap he exhibited as great courage as I have seen on any gridiron.

Tulane staged a magnificent comeback in the fourth quarter to run wild after trailing the Trojans, 21 to 0. It was a great windup of a great season for both elevens and Southern California deserved the glory that goes with the championship.

POWER AND WEIGHT BRINGS EAST THIRD VICTORY OVER WESTERN TEAM

San Francisco, Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—The palm went to the east today for its single touchdown victory over the west in a muddy battle for the all-Americans here New Year's day.

Eastern power and weight undermined western speed on the soggy, rain soaked gridiron at Kezar stadium, where some 60,000 watched Jim Purvis of Purdue clinch the game, 6 to 0, with a touchdown in the opening period.

With the lone score on the records, the game resolved itself into a punt duel broken only by Clark Hinkle's two desperate but unavailing efforts to cross the western goal in the last quarter. The Bucknell star made some of the greatest line plunges of the game in that final rush but the western forwards had the stamina to withstand his attack in the shadows of their goal.

It was the third all-eastern victory in the seventh meeting with all-westerners, the west having won four of the previous games. The team brought from the east by Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hanley of Northwestern deserved to win, but rain prevented the west from making as brilliant a showing as it might have.

Bill Morton of Dartmouth, Gene McEver of Tennessee, Pete Somers of Minnesota, Reb Russell of Northwestern and Rus Rehholz of Wisconsin shared backfield honors with Hinkle. It was Morton's winning in the exchange of punts that put the east in scoring position. Starting from the west's 24-yard line, the east worked the ball to the two-yard line. Frank Hoffman, Notre Dame's great guard, opened a hole through which Purvis dashed over the goal.

Merle Hufford, fleet back from Washington university, bolstered the western defense and his kicking took the losers out of many bad spots. But Hufford, Bud Toscani of St. Mary's and Weldon Mason of Southern Methodist could get nowhere in the mud and the few passes then attempted were knocked down.

CLARENCE CARLSON HURT BY FLYING PUCK; TEAM WINS

Canton, S. D., Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—Final tryouts for positions on the American ski team to represent this country in the Olympics will be held here January 17, according to word received today from Harold Grinden, Duluth, secretary of the National Ski association.

The announcement said that at least 25 of the country's outstanding riders would compete for positions. The majority of these are from clubs in the northwest.

RED DEVILS WIN COSTLY 4-0 VICTORY OVER NISSWA STARS

The Brainerd Red Devils won a costly 4-0 victory over the Nisswa Pucksters at the latter's rink Friday afternoon.

Clarence Carlson, substitute defense player, was hit by a flying puck. His lower lip was badly cut and his teeth injured. Carlson, a Northern Pacific employee, left today for St. Paul to undergo an X-ray examination at the N. P. B. A. hospital to determine if there was a jaw fracture. Carlson will likely be out of the game the remainder of the season.

Gabiau and Rofidal divided honors in scoring, each sinking the puck twice in the Nisswa net.

The lineups:
Brainerd—Gabiau, c.; Creger, r. w.; Rofidal, l. w.; A. Graff, r. d.; H. Graff, l. d.; Fox, goalie. Spares—Carlson for A. Graff; McIntosh for H. Graff.

RALPH HEPBURN AND BRYAN SAULPAUGH IN SERIOUS CONDITION IN OAKLAND

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 2.—(U.P.)—Two famous racing drivers, Ralph Hepburn of Indianapolis and Bryan Saulpaugh of Rock Island, Ill., were reported in a serious condition today from injuries received in accidents during the 100-mile New Year's day automobile race at Oakland speedway.

Both drivers were traveling more than 100 miles an hour when their machines crashed. Hepburn received a fractured skull when a tire blowout sent his light racer spinning through a fence on the 34th lap.

Other drivers in the race were signalled to slow down while Hepburn was being removed to a hospital, and during this period a heavy rain began falling. When the flag to resume top speed was waved, Saulpaugh accelerated so quickly that his car skidded into the judges' stand.

The car ripped the supporters from the stand, tumbling officials on top the track and hurling Saulpaugh out of the cockpit. A fractured skull and dislocated shoulder were his chief injuries.
